Specific instructions to mushers

Club has permit to use the stake- out / parking area. Otherwise it is strictly forbidden to enter the airfield area

Cars and trailers are parked to the parking area or next to the road

Do not leave dog feces (shit) to the ground, collect it and take away with You!

Do not let Your dogs dig holes to the ground. If that happens, repair before You leave

Trails

Stay on the marked trails intended for sleddog training. Ski-trails are not for driving dogs! Slow down when other trails cross the dog training trails. Respect the other users of the area and behave.

Note that the trail system has joined start and end. Possibility of head-on passing is quite large.

During winter, the club aims to maintain the trail once a week on weekdays and on weekends during joint training sessions. It is advisable to be considerate of other users and to smooth out your own tracks; a light sledge with a dog-drawn device smooths out the worst tracks from the trail and leaves the trail in good condition for the following users.

The club provides information about the weekly maintenance schedule on its Facebook page. If the weather forecast promises sheltered weather after the maintenance session announced for weekdays, please avoid using the trail before the weekend joint training sessions if you are unable to smooth your own tracks. Those who use the trail during the week are asked to leave the trail in good condition so that those who may arrive from further afield on the weekend will not be disappointed with the condition of the trail.

The phone service in the area varies. Study maps and learn the routes and trail signs. In the event of an accident, it is good to know where you are. We will inform you of any changes to the instructions or route as quickly as possible.
